Too bad we Rule!

Jen Higgins, Jody Moro, and Erin Lloyd show their Senior Pride.

After a hard day's work, the Class of '96 is still smiling.

Look out Louvre, here we come!

On August 26th the senior class gathered together at President Dave Nute's house to make our traditional senior tye dye's. It was a good way for the class of '96 to get together before the start of the school year. We traded our summer experiences and shared with each other the excitement of OUR SENIOR YEAR.

We showed the unity and pride we had in being the class of '96 by making and wearing our tye dyed shirts, on our final first day of high school together.

We chose Abdow's, the site of previous senior breakfasts to hold on to the WHS tradition. Even though it didn't open until seven, we were there bright and early at six thirty, ready for our day to begin.

Everyone jumped at the sight of the breakfast buffet but soon realized they were too excited and anxious to eat. We literally ate and ran....

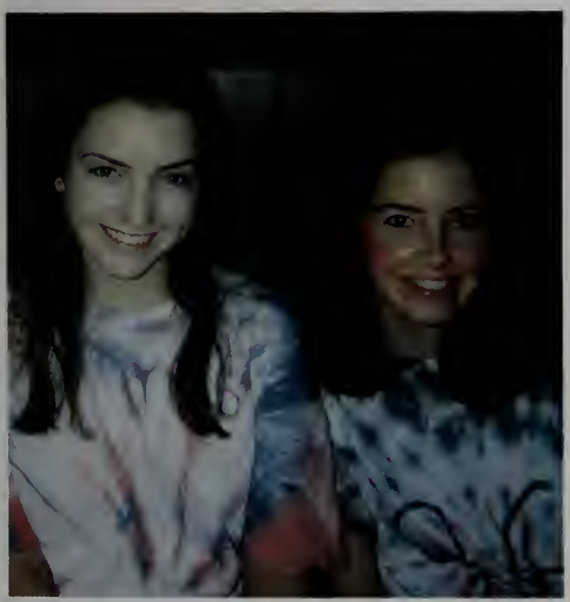
Andy and Jeremy, What's up?

Good morning, Asiya.

Monica McDuffie is so happy to be a senior.

Show those senior smiles!

Jen Blunt and Jacey Bloom before the honorary senior feast.



As we drove around the rotary in our decorated cars beeping our horns, we let everyone know the class of '96 had arrived.

September 6th was a day of togetherness and unity as friends and as a class. No matter what happened throughout the year we would always remember our very last first day of high school.

Nicole Robinson

First Day

We walked through the door with nervous anticipation. The chants and the cheers of the upperclassmen flooded our ears, as our eyes swept across the mass of people hoping to find a familiar face. We were awestruck at the greatness of it all. As we glanced up at the wall of tie-dyed tee-shirts and banners that lined the top balcony, we knew that we were a world away from the confined halls of the middle school.

After unsuccessfully dodging the spaghetti that fell from the third floor, we made our way up the stairs to tackle the tasks of opening lockers that wouldn't unlock, and finding classrooms that seemed virtually nonexistent. The three minutes allowed for passing seemed more like thirty seconds, and after asking for directions from the upperclassmen, it seemed that every freshman class was next to the pool on the fourth floor.

Lauren Grimley

The freshman girls are bubbling over with happiness to finally be at the high school.

If looks could kill, these three musketeers would be put away for life.

Don't John Pearson and Brian Blackerby look snazzy in their tie-dyes and HATS!

Hey Justin, this isn't a mug shot!

"'96 Rocks!," I screamed as I threw my last handful of rice over the 3rd floor balcony. I then headed to the auditorium, all decked out in my senior gear with a sense of self confidence. The words from Mrs. Zolubus speech echoed in my head: "Seniors, College Essays, Role Models, Acceptances, Graduation." A wave of panic jolted my body. The look of senior excitement was no longer on anyone's face.

What was it we thought senior year would be? I always pictured it to be some magical experience. It was then that I decided to make this the best year ever. I made a promise to myself that I would never lose touch with my friends. This bond that we have created through the past four years has been the true magical experience. It just takes until senior year to realize it.

Erin Thomas and Jim Igoe have that carefree senior look.

On Saturday morning, June 19th, 20 students gathered together to face a fun-filled day of washing cars. Although sacrificing our "oh so important" beauty sleep to be at the H.S at 9am, we suprisingly had high spirits.

In the beginning, the business was pretty slow. But when Sul and Bregman arrived with the banner, their enthusiasm attracted an inpouring of cars. We were so overwhelmed with winning water fights and squeezing the soap filled sponges over each other's head, we got a bit distracted from the real task at hand--Washing Cars. But after some time, we mastered the art of both.

Our biggest challenge of the day came when the Marr-Oil Truck arrived. We all had to work together, and it ended up being a highlight of the day. We can also not forget our "friend" from White Hen who so generously provided us with cases of soda. All in all, it was a huge success, raising a great deal of money for the yearbook. To everyone who helped, thanks.

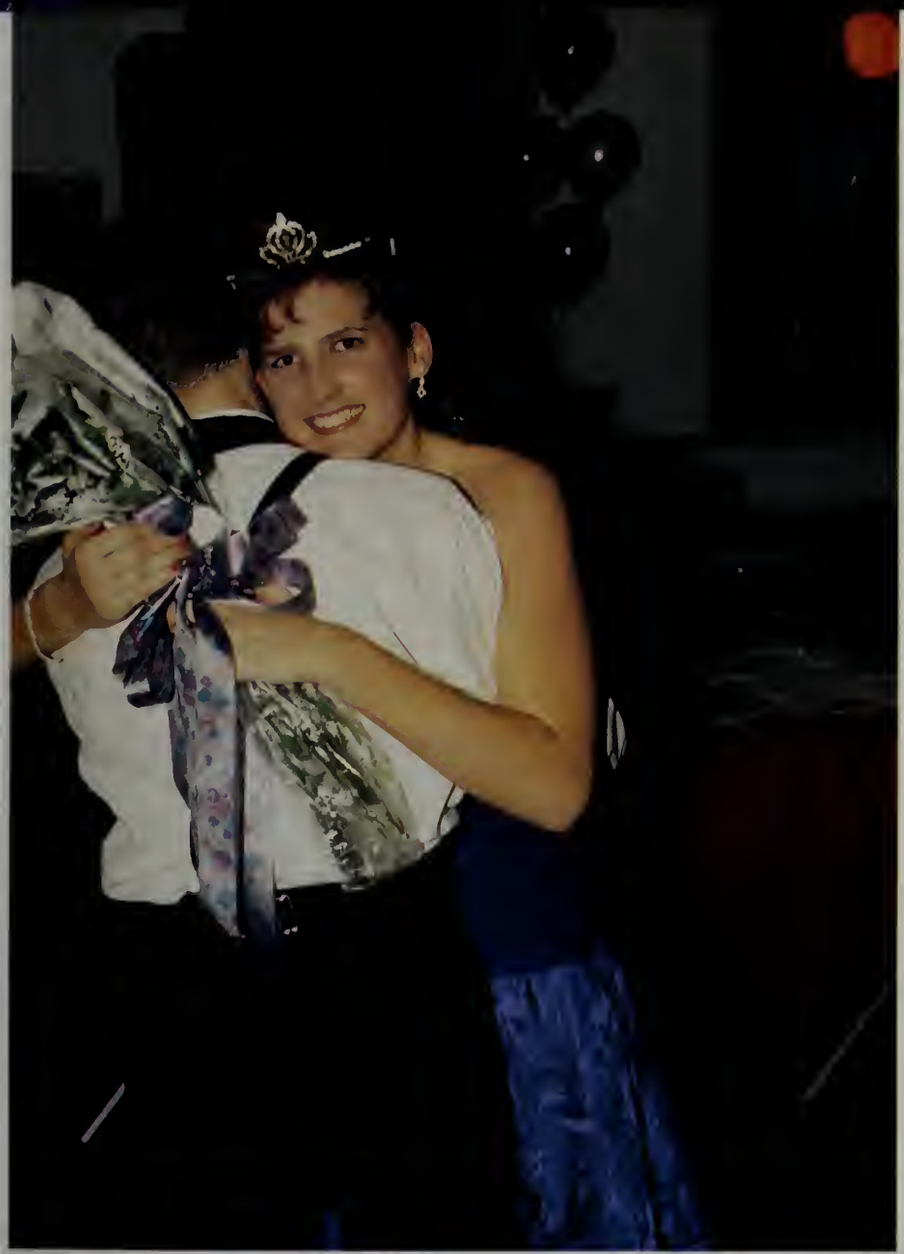
WHILE AT THE PROM, ERIN TAKES TIME OUT FOR HER FRIENDS.



April 7,1995. The time had finally come. All the endless hours of preparation had come together at last. Every hair was in place and all the plans had been set. Parents took pictures for what seemed like an eternity while we smiled and posed. Then the limos arrived and with great fanfare we were on our way to what we hoped would be the best night of our lives. We were overwhelmed with joy as we walked into the glittering, balloon-filled room and saw our friends all "dazzled up." Soon after we arrived we ran upstairs for pictures, then downstairs to dance the night away. The music and laughter was contagious and it wasn't long before we were all dancing as one. As the court was announced, there were shocked smiles on the faces of our court members and tears sprang to the eyes of our queen, Jody Moro.

When the last song was played, and we got back in our limos, we knew These are the Days to remember.

Hello Kiddies! Fun day?

Hey, Nicole hungry?

For many people stepping out of that limo for a final time that special night, it wasn't the end to a memorable evening, nor was it a time to rest. It was a time to slip out of those awkward dresses, and uncomfortable tuxedos, throw on some sweats and finally let your hair down. Though one stage of the night was ending, Post Prom was just beginning. Many people stayed in Westborough that night gathering in various houses. Wall to wall bodies made for an incredible bonding experience.

The next morning, weary-eyed and sick from all of the excitement of the past night's events, everyone departed to their own separate destinations. For many the Cape option mysteriously disappeared. As a result, some people went to Boston to take on Faneuil Hall. Others wandered around Boston for hours looking for Faneuil Hall. While still others never even made it to Riverside station.

Another group ventured off to Newport for a day of shopping. But the rain made many tired bodies grumpy, and ultimately festivities were cut short for a few hours so that people could rest and get their second wind. Then yet another night of partying took place. All in all I'm sure "Prom Weekend" will be one experience many people will never forget!

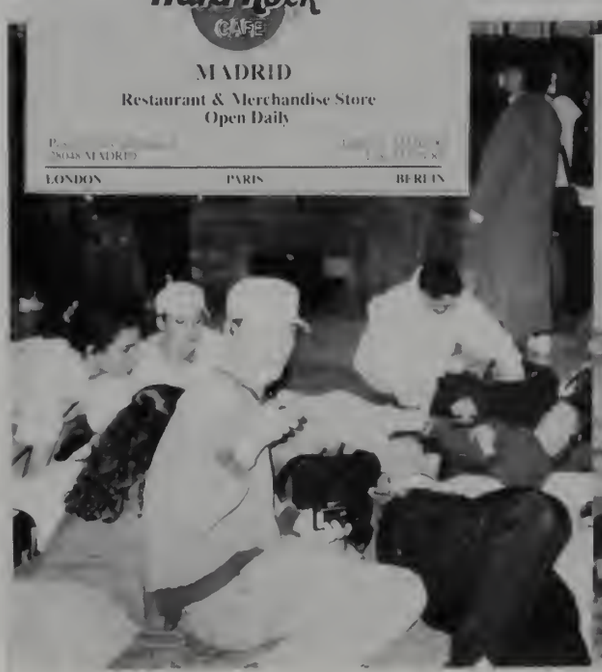
SOMETHING TO WRITE HOME ABOUT

EN Madrid

Museo del Prado



We're going to Europe! On April 16, 1995, forty students from Westboro High School, along with five chaperones, embarked on what would soon be the trip of a lifetime.

We arrived in Paris, France and met our courrier Ian. He directed us to the bus that would take us to the Hotel Mac Mahon. Our days in France were filled with tours of the Eiffel Tower, the Notre Dame Cathedral, Marie Antoinette's Gardens, the Louvre and lots of walking. Everyone seemed to have the same idea on the long bus rides back to the hotel. The entire bus always fell asleep. (Thanks Ian!)

After four days in Paris, it was time to say goodbye but we knew this wasn't the end. It was time to board the overnight train that would take us to our next destination, Madrid, Spain.

We experienced many adventures on the overnight train. First we had to adjust to the tight sleeping quarters. Six people to a room the size of a walk-in closet was not an easy task. Mr. Gravel gave us all a talk, and soon enough the doors opened and we had made it to Madrid. We quickly dragged our tired, weary bodies onto the bus and were off to the Hotel Florida Norte.

Our time in Madrid was spent looking at the Statue of Cerveces, touring the Prado, visiting Toledo and, the highlight of the trip, a Spanish disco. We dressed in our best clothing and were one of the first groups to arrive at the disco. Everyone enjoyed themselves and even the chaperones danced a little (Ms. Burturllia!).

When the time came to leave Madrid, we kew we had to say goodbye to Ian and to Europe. We had made some of the best memories and we all knew we would treasure our European vacation for the rest of our lives.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

I was a bit disappointed when I came to the United States because everything seemed to be the same way it used to be in Germany, but after awhile I found important differences. People act friendlier when they get to know that I am from Germany, than in other countries. Things were very different than I thought they were, the movies, the reports of friends who visited the states during the holidays, and even the books the exchange organization gave me created a picture of the U.S. that wasn't true how I had to recognize later. Especially the school was different. I never thought that the school systems could vary that much. School here seemed to be so much easier until we had to take the midterms which showed that even the schools in the U.S. are hard. The most important thing I recognized in WHS was the high techonological standards. New 486's in the computer labs, at least a hundered computers, and two internal networks compares to the 20 286's that my school in Germany has, this was unbelievable. Altogether, I am glad to be here and I won't forget this year for sure!

Xaver Matz

I had a dream to travel to a foreign country for a year, and discover many of the things that America has to offer.
I had a dream about a country that opened its arms to me and took me in like a son. Alice went to the other side of the mirror. For me, I just needed to fly over the ocean.
I had a dream...in America.
Thanks so much to my host family who contributed to the success of the dream and of this wonderful year.
Thanks to my family, who gave me the chance to discover the world, make new friends (Mega), and learn different ideas. Thanks to Kathleen and CHI, WHS, and to all the good friends that I met this year.
"Let us come back tomorrow".

Corentin Snauwaert

One of the reasons why I decided to leave my home in Germany for one year and come to the U.S. was that I wanted to see something new, something different. Also there was the idea of complete "independence" for one whole year. I always thought independence meant to stand on your own and as a kid doing whatever you wanted and having fun all the time. But coming into a loving host family, a totally new family, meant a lot of new responsibilities and duties I hadn't reallly thought about. Not bad at all, because now I see more clearly what the concept of "independence" actually means. I still think it means standing on your own, but on the other hand always being there for others too. I also see more plainly that there are in most of the cases two sides to consider, and you can't put things aside only because you don't want to do them or they don't fit into your attitude. Because nothing is better or worse, just different. Additionally, what I realized was that as long as you are needed or you yourself do need, you are not completely free. But it is a clear, straight and open mind that makes the difference. It is not the funny clothes you wear or the cool haircut you might have, it's the mind. And I do really like what one of my favorite musicians (H.R. of the Bad Brains) once said. He said:

"We didn't call ourselves bad brains at first. We called ourselves mind power, for many reasons. We were hoping to follow some theories we read in a book (Think and Grow by Napolean Hill). We were hoping to be able to have a name that would represent what we thought the youth needed."

Seniors

Senior Side

As viewed by Cela

To be honest, the only thing I remember about the actual game is being plowed over each time by the massive junior guard who tried to dismantle our QB and nearly being hit by a really mature junior cheerleader's "gazorch." It's really everything that lead up to the game that will go down in history.

Seniors basically wanted to go out and play a game to have fun obviously. So we didn't take practicing and the idea of an actual coach seriously. We felt it ruined the whole concept of Powderpuff — a female interpretation of football, all for the benefit of charity. So the idea of just going there to win a game was alien to us. Yeah, it would be nice to win too, but that's not the spirit of Powderpuff. And we found it unfortuante that the juniors didn't see it that way also.

Thanks to the Vichare's, we had a great "pasta party", which actually consisted of subs and a fine array of Pepsi products. While there we danced up a storm (Low Rider — Forever!), chatted, watched "Friends" and decorated our banners. We soon heard the screeching of tires, adrenaline pumped through our bodies, and we were off. It was something we had anticipated from the junior class, but we had unanimously decided not to crash their party. We had to let them know their presence here was unwelcome.

The chase that ensued was one of the thrills, laughter and eventually the juniors' social downfall. There was Bill's interpretation of "ludicrous speed", Scott's near fatal pass on the right of Gill's car, and the pit stop on a dead end street of a certain BLUE WAGONEER. By the end of the night the SENIORS knew one thing: regardless of the game the next day — we won.

Even after the junior's demeaning banners and threats, we were all still wondering one thing, where was the Class of '94 during all of this?

After waiting two hours for our chance to go up against the seniors, we were ready to show them who rules.

The previous night we started out making banners, but the night ended with minor rioting. Early the next morning our "crew" gathered at Mc Donald's to get ready for the big game. Little did we know that the seniors would come to try and intimidate us.

The day went by fast with the traditional balloon popping and banner ripping pranks. Before we knew it, it was 2:30, and time to play.

Our offense and defense were untouchable. The seniors might say that they didn't try and just wanted to have fun, but why was vaseline put on their flags? Oh well, we forgot, they never wanted to win!

After the game some poor sports on the senior side started making some rude comments about our hard-working juniors, but we didn't let that bring us down because after all, it was 12-0. (Jealous much?)

Holiday Ball

The Holiday Ball was a much talked about event in school this year. No matter where you went, you would always find someone gossiping about who was going with who, what people were wearing, and where they were going before and after the dance.

On December 8, 1995 the anticipated event finally arrived. Girls rushed to get their hair and nails done while the guys went to pick up their tuxedos and the corsages. Before we knew it, our dates had arrived and we were ready to go. But wait — just one more picture for our parents. Finally they let us go and we went to dinner with our friends. Then we were off for the Holiday Ball. As we walked through the door and saw the school lobby transformed with silver decorations, we realized this was a starlit night we'd never forget.

. . . AND

There is a parallel universe: the world we actually live in, where human beings struggle and suffer, and events have tangible, irreversible and sometimes painful consequences. When a bomb blew apart an office building in Oklahoma City the rubble fell and did not rise; and 169 men, women and children were buried beneath it. The events set in motion by a savage murder one June night in 1994 reached their conclusion in a Los Angeles courtroom, where a man's future hung for months on invisible strands of chemicals. Almost a million black men marched on Washington, an obsessed Israeli tried to change history with a bullet, and untold thousands died in the Balkans before a tenuous peace settled on that tragic land in time for Christmas. And the fate of each of us, whether we wish it or not, is bound up in those momentous events and a million others.

The Sociology class at Westboro High School is unique in that each student not only examines social groups in society within the classroom, but goes outside of the classroom to compare their classroom experiences to life itself. Each student is required to complete eighty hours of community service, which breaks down to approximately 2½ hours a week. The community service projects this year consist of a wide range of activities. Many students spend their study periods, or afterschool time working with the fifth graders. Some work with the entire class, where others work one on one with students who need special attention. Some other students have become involved with Habitat for Humanity. This organization provides people who don't qualify for a mortgage, with a place to live. They clear the land, and form committees to build the house. Other activities not mentioned consist of working with the elderly, Big Brother/Big Sister, Youth-Link, and handing out gifts at Patriots games to benefit the Battered Women's Foundation (thank you Mrs. Culhane!). No matter what the community service is, each student is out working with these different groups. Hopefully they are not only making a difference in someone else's life, but getting a personal benefit by knowing the difference they have made.

Secret Santa is a tradition in Westboro High School. Getting dressed up in a ridiculous costume, and saying and doing embarrassing things. It's a time to let loose and do things that nobody normally will do.

Is it worth the gift that you will receive when it's all over? Yes, it is. It makes our lunch time fun and exciting for those few days before the Holidays.

Some of the costumes ranged from the "Incredible Hulk" to a dancing unicorn rider. All in all it was a good time for everyone, not only the class of '96.

ALL YOU NEED

WITHOUT FRIENDS, HIGH SCHOOL WOULD BE A MERE ACCUMULATION OF TESTS, BOOKS, PAPERS, AND GRADES, AND LIFE WOULD BE AS INTERESTING AS YOUR AVERAGE MATH CLASS. MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE TEXTBOOK IS WHAT WE LEARN THROUGH OUR FRIENDSHIPS. MY FRIENDS HAVE TAUGHT ME TO TRUST, AND ALL IT TAKES TO BE TRUSTED. THEY'VE HELPED ME TO LEARN HOW TO LOVE, AND TO ALLOW MYSELF TO BE LOVED. THEY'VE MADE ME LAUGH A THOUSAND TIMES WHEN I WOULD HAVE OTHERWISE CRIED. THEY'VE ALSO TAUGHT ME A THING OR TWO ABOUT SACRIFICE AND ABOUT SWALLOWING ONE'S PRIDE. TEN OR TWENTY YEARS DOWN THE ROAD, WHEN ALGEBRA AND BIOLOGY HAVE ESCAPED MY MEMORY, THESE ARE THE THINGS I'LL STILL CARRY WITH ME, NOT SHAKESPEARE OR DARWIN, BUT MY FRIENDS.

On February 10, 1996, seven high school bands came together at the 1860 Hall to perform their music. This local extravaganza brought over 300 people to the hall, and a happy time was shared by all. Hosted by the great Chris Stevens, this show provided forty thousand watts of bone crushing sound. Despite the technical difficulties and minor injuries, this show was a social, economical, and emotional success. Thank you to all bands who played, and people who came and listened to their performance.

"Nicole, Rachel, and Cristin lead the team as captains"

This year's field hockey season was a different one for Coach Debish. We were a young, unexperienced team with low expectations put upon us.

Coming in many of us didn't know or like each other. As the season went on we pulled together, not only as a team but as a group of friends. We learned the true meaning of TEAM: Together, Everyone, Achieves, More. From learning and using this we became the only fall sports team to reach districts. Although we lost in the first round we proved our expectations wrong.

We may not have been as good as in the past seasons but we made many memories, friends and laughs to remember.

MEN'S SOCCER

If one were to look at the record of the 1995/96 men's varsity soccer team, one would be lead to believe that either our team wasn't talented enough or that we simply didn't try. Unfortunately we did have the talent, but we never really gave 100% as a team. The summer prior to the season, we had numerous captains' practices & scrimmages which for the most part we fared well in. At this point both Coach Allen's and the teams perspective of the team were positive.

We started the season off with two tough losses to division one powerhouses, Leominster and Marlboro, both teams made it to districts. After that our hopes of making it to districts faded away. Although we finished strong , we usually lost the games in the first half.

There were some highlights: our comeback win against Gardner late in the game, our 4-4 tie against Algonquin.

The tri-captains (Scott, Jeremy and Andy) believe that the 96' soccer team should have no trouble making Districts as long as they don't give up their spirit.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

WELL . . . IT WAS AN INTERESTING SEASON TO SAY THE LEAST. IT WAS KIND OF A ROLLER-COASTER RIDE FOR US. WE HAD LOTS OF UPS AND DOWNS, A COUPLE OF WINS AND A BUNCH OF LOSSSES. BUT, THAT'S OKAY. THROUGHT THE SEASON I REALIZED WE HAD MUCH MORE THAN WE THOUGHT, WHICH WAS ABOUT SIXTEEN PLAYERS. WHEN NOTHING SEEMED TO BE GOING RIGHT AND WE HAD A GAME, SOMEHOW WE ALL PULLED AND TOGETHER PLAYED AS WELL AS WE COULD. WE HAD LOTS OF HEART ON THE FIELD, AND I THINK THAT'S WHAT KEPT US GOING. WE TRIED TO KEEP OUR SPIRITS HIGH, AND WE DIDN'T HANG OUR HEADS AFTER A CRUSHING DEFEAT. EVERY GAME WE GAVE OUR ALL UNTIL THE END. THROUGHOUT THE SEASON WE MANAGED TO HOLD TOGETHER AS A TEAM AND THAT WAS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING. I WANT TO THANK EVERYONE FOR NOT GIVING UP ON THEMSELVES OR EACH OTHER.

The fall season of the Men's Cross Country team was one of the most enthusiastic season in years. Fueled by a large group of excited freshmen, the team's veteran members managed to grow and improve. After all the races were run, all the practices ended, and all the pasta at the banquet devoured, one thing was very clear: Though we did not win every race, we were a team. We all supported each other from the first runner to the last.

ICE HOCKEY

The 1995-96 Westboro Hockey Team has a success story to tell. We came from a dismal 94-95 season winning only two games out of twenty. This year we have broken a .500 record and made the play-offs for the first time in eight years. It was the hard work and determination of seven seniors, our coach, and our younger players. Next year looks prosperous as players such as Ricky Pratt, Jamie McPherson, and Brian LaPointe return. Our team took big steps this year and I would like nothing more than to see next year's steps even bigger.

As a new sport this year at Westborough, we faced a lot of obstacles. It was hard being a member of a team that most of the school didn't even realize existed. We barely had enough people for both a JV and Varsity team and many players to swing for both. Our season began against tough competitors such as Marlborough and Milford and right away we stepped up and began to play as a team. Although we only won one game this year, we played hard and well, giving many opponents a tough match. Considering most of our team had never played before and we were facing teams with members who had been playing for at least three years, we did well. That one win against Hudson certainly was sweet and with a little more experience, we should be more successful in the future.

Tiffany Slade gives new meaning to "The Air Up There".

The Westboro High School gymnastics team's spirit and enthusiasm exploded as our team nearly doubled in size. With the addition of five new freshmen Ashley Hayden, Liz Howland, Jen Nadler, Tiffany Lawrence, and third place Midwatch All Around Tiffany Slade; one new sophomore Jocelyn Cortez; and returning teammates Jen Freeland, Marcia Nadler, and Marie Roberts, things really picked up. Our average score improved by over 30 points. The pasta parties and sharp new uniforms boosted the moral of the team along with the generosity and enthusiasm of two wonderful coaches, Kathy I and Cathy II. Both coaches encouraged each of us to stretch our potential, the results speak for themselves.

On a more personal note, in the past four years I have seen the team go from great strength to nearly non-existent but it is coming back. This was the start of the building years. I wish the best of luck to the future WHS gymnastics team.

Marcia Nadler's final pose puts the finishing touches on her floor routine.

Jocelyn Cortez knows how to strut her stuff.

INDOOR TRACK & FIELD

THE 1995/96 INDOOR TRACK SEASON WAS ONE OF NEW BEGINNINGS. THIS WOULD BE OUR FIRST YEAR COMPETING IN THE MID-WACHUSETTS LEAGUE AND WE WOULD BE RUNNING MOST OUR MEETS AT A DIFFERENT TRACK THEN IN YEARS PAST. RICK HEBERT, EXPERIENCED IN BOTH RUNNING AND TRIATHALONS, JOINED MARY RYAN AS OUR DUAL COACH.

NO ONE KNEW QUITE WHAT TO EXPECT FROM THE TEAM, BUT WE QUICKLY ANSWERED ANY QUESTIONS. A TALENTED GROUP OF ATHLETES LED THE TEAM IN BOTH POINTS AND SPIRIT: SAM ERICKSON, ALLAN MAUS, BECKY HOWARD, MARK VAUTOUR, LIZ LUCAS, CAPT. TARA FAY, DIRK MIETH, STACY ELIOPOULOS, AND MIKE AND DAVE CLARK.

DURING OUR IMPRESSIVE SEASON, RECORDS WERE BROKEN BY MIKE CLARK IN THE 1000 YDS, TARA FAY IN THE SHOT PUT, AND STACY ELIOPOLUS AND ALLAN MAUS IN THE HIGH JUMP.

THANKS TO THE HARD WORK AND DETERMINATION OF THE TEAM, WESTBOROUGH INDOOR TRACK HAD A SUCCESSFUL SEASON AND CONTINUED ITS GROWING TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE.

Heidi was a highpoint.

by Kate Burnham

Congratulations to the entire cast and crew of The Heidi Chronicles, performed this weekend. The complexity of this show demanded a huge amount of talent (and some skillful direction by Mrs. Leahy and Amanda Erwin '97) but Centerstage rose to the occasion.

The plot spans a 25-year period, so each character develops considerably, trying to find his niche in the world. Seniors Meaghan Williams and Tracey Freitag (as Heidi and her close friend) reacted with realism to the theme of the women's movement which ran throughout the script.

The two most important males in Heidi's life (played by seniors Chris Lucas and Adam Slater) balanced the problems that they caused with humor. Aided by a handful of excellent supporting players (think Megan McGrath '98 in army fatigues) and a slide show to illustrate the time period, the show was a credit to all involved.

With this production, Centerstage continues its excellent reputation.

Dear Little Brown Cow,

I graduated high school when I was 8, so I don't plan on leaving for quite some time. Besides, if there were others that knew it all, I would have been out of a job years ago.

THE 3RD HALF

The arrival of the Armstrong School at the high school has necessitated the loss of the video studio. However, the Third Half, a student run TV show that highlights prominent student athletes has come back big. Greater Media Cable offered the use of its studio and equipment, and with Josh Siegel as it's host, the Third Half has generated high ratings among WHS students. This year Josh has hosted the captains of each sport and special guests like Ms. Spinney. He has sponsored panel discussions on important athletic issues, soliciting the opinions of both students and faculty.

Gail and Jacey finally find the time to smile!

This has been a banner year and a normal year: We have used a page-maker system to do at least half of our book, and therefore, we survived much electronic confusion. However, it is a normal year in that again we deal with the friction and confusion, and lost articles and confusion, and headaches and confusion, and mis-numbered papers and confusion, and whether or not we would have a study period next year and confusion. At times we felt the need to scream and at others we felt closer because of our accomplishment.

HOW MANY TIMES CAN I SAY IT! People who make the tremendous effort needed to complete the book are both crazy and special. They must do it out of a sense of doing something special, of recording for their classmates the close of an epoch. These workers care because they realize the importance of this closure and the difficulty of saying good-bye to being a high school senior. Over the years, I have come to understand this, and as a result my seriousness about the yearbook has grown by leaps and bounds.

Bob Kaplan

Mr. Kaplan shows that it's not stressful to be a yearbook advisor. Yeah, right!

EDITORS

When first asked to be on the yearbook it was like "no problem," well, "my bad!" This year has been hard work, frustrating, never ending, and fun. I am glad I had a chance to be a part of this yearbook. I wasn't on yearbook last year so I didn't know a lot going. The other editors Jacey, Gail, and Emily, along with Mr. Kaplan helped me out more than they thought. Jacey showed me everything I didn't know, and Gail also showed me the ropes. Mr. Kaplan did a great job putting up with me! That is an accomplishment in itself (my territory)!

Basically, I would like to thank the rest of the staff for being so understanding with us editors and deadlines. Good luck next year Mark, you'll need it.

Tracey

I love pictures. I love taking pictures. I love getting pictures back. I love color pictures and black and white pictures. I love serious pictures, and I definitely love funny pictures. Therefore, I loved the idea of becoming the yearbook photo editor this year. However, there was one thing I've realized I've had to do that I didn't love; I had to become organized, and I had to be on time for deadlines. This wasn't easy, for example superlatives, camera x 2, heads being cut off, seventh period study, and the people in it. (Just Kidding)! I hope everyone who looks at this yearbook loves the pictures in it just as much as I do, and I hope it goes down in history as one of the best yearbooks ever!

Emily

Last year's editor's made it look all too easy. Whoever thought being a yearbook editor was simple is wrong; so, I guess I was wrong!

I'll never forget our after school sessions, vacations filled with coffee, bagels, and juice while we worked diligently, and Mr. Kaplan's insistence on buying us Coke when he saw the lines of stress cross our faces as he tried to show us the computer.

Although we've had numerous snow days, no yearbook homeroom, many early dismissals, and only some deadline extensions (yeah, right), we managed to pull it off. I couldn't have done it without you, Gail - You're the best co-editor. Thanks for listening to me when I stressed. We really do balance each other out. You have unbelievable devotion. We overcame all the obstacles and together made, what I think, is a fabulous book. Tracey - Well, you accomplished your goal. No businesses in the ad section. It looks great! Tara Fay - although you couldn't be in seventh period study, you were the biggest help. You came to school early every morning, probably even before I was able to roll out of bed. Thanx! Emily - You were always ready with a camera. The pictures are great. And finally Mr. Kaplan - Gail and I sometimes couldn't stand each other (hardly ever), I don't know how you did it! Your ideas and dedication kept me motivated. Thanks for always being there.

Gook luck Eva, Jen, Mark and Nicole. You have proved that next year's yearbook will be as wonderful as this year's (if that's possible)! Have fun with it, I know I did!

Jacey

Connect Four

It's all over and somehow I survived! When I agreed to be a co-editor for the 1996 yearbook, I had no idea what I was getting myself into. I watched last year's editors and I thought, that doesn't look too difficult! Boy, was I wrong! There is so much work involved in being a yearbook editor. I was lucky enough to spend my last week of summer vacation inside room 331. While it was sunny and beautiful outside, I was trapped inside a small, humid cubicle amidst layouts, pictures, and rulers. I didn't realize at that time that room 331 would become my new home for the year. Yearbook has become my life. I can't do much of anything without wondering in the back of my head if a page has been completed on time, or if we will make our next deadline. I'm positive I've suffered from a few mild heart attacks, and a handful of nervous breakdowns. To remedy these illnesses I raided Mr. Sharpe's candy jar, and listened to Mr. Fredette's helpful suggestions. Thank you both for your help.

You'd think I would be happy come time of vacations and teacher conference days, but editors get to spend their vacations in rm. 331 (Lucky us)! Atleast we had bagels! Of course yearbook isn't all bad! I've learned many valuable things in being an editor, like the fact that deadlines are my worst enemy. Or, if you are trapped in room 331 until 5:00 at night, make sure Mark has a six pack of Coke nearby. Also, never let Mr. Kaplan near the computer without editor supervision (just kidding Mr. Kaplan, that is your name, right)! I really did have a fun time this year! Ja, I couldn't have asked for a better co-editor! Good luck, and never forget Joe! Eva, Mark, and Jen, it's been real-Friendly's forever! Have fun next year, you've got your work cut out for you! Lastly, I realize I get no money for the job that has been completed, but I truly believe the free yearbook makes up for it, and I can't forget that lovely, green, Herff Jones t-shirt! This book and staff really is "the best yet!"

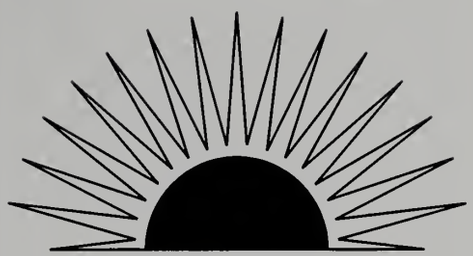
The Next Piece

We have completed our first "mini" puzzle, which will act as a piece in the large puzzle of life. No one can know for sure what each piece will look like. As the pieces finally become part of this large puzzle, we begin to see the shape that the rest of our lives will take.

Friends are an important part of this puzzle. Throughout the four years of high school each of us has formed relationships with people who have added traits to our personalities. Though we long to hold on to these friendships, the ending of some are inevitable.

We have used the four years of high school as a time to meet people with whom we hope to share life long friendships. Whether we have met them through sports, academics, or afterschool activities; we have formed a common bond which links us together; and is hard to break. We all have to deal with this separation of leaving high school and each other, but at the same time we are becoming more united. This book was created so the class of 1996 can look back fondly on memories and friends of Westborough High School and never forget the special connections they made.

Life is a puzzle. Our puzzle at Westborough High is completed, yet a newer puzzle is just beginning. This will be the next piece for our class. And who knows, maybe our pieces will connect again someday.



MOVING ON.

We see this book as one large puzzle. The pieces all came together with the help of our wonderful seventh period staff. Thanks!

Jen Blunt	Melissa Murgo
Erin Caddigan	Christine Passler
Kate Carleo	Nicole Robinson
Lauren Grimley	Kate Roberto
Tara Jackman	Eva Sharma
Jen Krasner	Mark Vautour

However, we feel the following people deserve a special thanks. They put more time and effort into the book than was ever expected.

-- Erin Caddigan and Kate Roberto who spent long hours typing and correcting our senior grids. We are so thankful!!!
-- Tara Fay, our official sports editor, for coming in early, staying late and everything in between to do the senior layouts and sports pages. What would we do without you?!?
-- Stacy Lacouture for giving us so many headlines to choose from on such short notice. They look great!
-- Danielle Glasier who drew the title page in a matter of days. We appreciate it!
-- Jen Blunt for taking over the job of caption writing when we didn't feel like doing it!
-- Gerry Topping and Mike Thompson for helping Tracey keep the soda machine fully stocked.
-- Scott McDowell, Nic Granger and everyone else who spent many days with a camera held to their eye! Our pictures are great!
-- Everyone who wrote a copy for the yearbook. Because of you not only will the pictures remain clear, but so will the thoughts and feelings.
-- And especially Mr.Kaplan, without who we might not still be sane today. You're the best yearbook advisor ever and we'll never forget you!

Good Luck next year Eva, Jen, Mark, and Nicole - You guys are a great team! You'll do the job well!

We've had a blast!
